INTENSIFICATION OF WAR NOW FORECAST

By RUSSEL F. ANDERSON

LONDON, April 5.—Intensification of the war against Germany appeared as the watch-word in England today as the British government increased its efforts in both military and diplomatic spheres.

At the same time the government launched a gigantic program aimed at maintenance of its sea-borne commerce. It was announced that Britain will begin producing cargo vessels on a mass production basis, with each shipyard constructing only one type of vessel.

An official announcement said the ships will be turned out "at a speed never known before."

Widen Effort In Balkans

Widening of the war effort in the Balkans also was seen in announcement by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon of creation of a Balkan trading company to fight Germany on the southeastern economic front.

The company will seek to push

Susquehanna River Is Above Flood Stage Again

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, April 5—Anxiety grew in the Wyoming Valley flood zone today as the rain-gorged Susquehanna passed flood stage for the second time since Monday and headed toward a new crest.

Upsetting predictions that it would rise no higher than 25 feet, the swollen stream showed a height of 25.14 at Wilkes-Barre's Market St. bridge at 7 a. m. and gave no sign of receding. The flood crest last Monday was 31.6.

Rising streams in northern Pennsylvania and southern New York, coupled with light rainfall during the night, brought fear to thousands that further flood havoc was to be visited on them. Skies were overcast.

Richard Bately, state flood control engineer who had predicted a 25-foot crest revised his estimate to 27½ feet on the basis of information received after the storms.

Water Returns To Lowlands

Water was returning to the lowlands adjacent to Wilkes-Barre, and Breslau and Lynwood, in Hanover township, were reported covered again. Water was pouring over the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at Buttonwood.

Coast guardsmen, called here for the first crest, stood by. Additional men and equipment were arriving and a plane was used in connection with a river survey.

Los Angeles Police Believe Young Girl Is Slayer Of Four

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, April 5.—Chloe Davis, an 11-year-old school girl with cold, fascinating steely-blue eyes, today stuck calmly to her ghastly story of multiple murder and suicide, but police believed her to be the slayer of her mother, her two younger sisters and her baby brother.

She was booked on suspicion of murder.

Horrifying Crime

In one of the most horrifying crimes in Los Angeles police annals, police officers and psychiatrists were of the opinion that in one hour yesterday morning, the fair-haired, unemotional child hammered to death the following victims:

Her mother, Mrs. Lolita Davis, 36; her two sisters, Daphne, 10, and Deborah Ann, 7; her brother, Marquis ("Mark"), 3.

Without shedding a tear, without the slightest trace of grief or emotion, despite hours of patient questioning by police authorities, she continued to insist:

1. That shortly after her father, Barton Davis, 42-year-old grocery store manager, left the family home in southwest Los Angeles at 7 a. m. yesterday, she was awakened by "the sounds of screaming and hammering."

Leaps From Bed

2. That she leaped from her bed to find her baby brother lying in the kitchen, dying, Daphne moaning in anguish on the floor near him, Deborah lying nude in the bathtub, bleeding from a gaping wound in the head, and her mother approaching her, hammer in hand, crying that "demons told her to kill all us kids."

3. That her mother attacked her with the hammer and struck her on

Freeland Denies Charges Of State

Member Of Dauphin County Democratic Committee Testifies In Macing Trial

DOZEN CHARACTER WITNESSES HEARD

BY RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 5.—With a plea of innocence, William B. Freeland, member of the Dauphin County Democratic Committee and one of eight Democrats on trial for macing, followed a dozen character witnesses to the stand today in county courthouse.

Freeland, a Pennsylvania railroad employe, and fourth defendant to testify, promptly denied that he conspired with Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence and six other members of his party to levy political assessments on state employes during the Earle administration.

Describing himself as a non-salaried employe of the Dauphin county committee, Freeland asserted that assessments meant to him "the amount of money he wished people would give, a quota we hoped we would be able to raise."

Among witnesses who testified in behalf of Wendell Morgenthaler, treasurer of the Dauphin county Democratic committee, was Bishop Wyatt Brown of the Central Pennsylvania M. E. diocese.

"I don't know of any other young man with a better reputation," the Rev. Brown said of Morgenthaler. Others who testified as to the defendant's reputation were former State Senator Scott S. Leiby and J. Calvin Franks, director of Harrisburg parks and property.

BUTLER, Pa., April 5.—A 64-year-old widow, burned critically by a son who covered her body with an inflammable fluid and turned her into a living torch, fought for her life in Butler hospital today, while police continued to grill the sullen off-spring who apparently went berserk and attacked two other persons with a small hatchet at nearby Chicora.

Mrs. Emma Moore, hospital attaches said early this morning, was in a "critical condition," with second and third degree burns on the upper parts of her body and her head.

In the same hospital, Ethel O'Brien, 25, a trained nurse who had been attending Mrs. Moore, was recovering from a hatchet attack, as was another of Mrs. Moore's six sons, William, 27. Administration Will Demand Lump Sum For Relief Appropriation

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The administration today decided to demand a lump sum relief appropriation from congress so that it can expand or contract the work projects administration and allied agencies in line with the rise or decline of business activity.

The program, it was pointed out, would permit WPA to expand beyond this year's enrollment even though budget recommendations call for a one-third cut for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The administration's proposal calls for relief appropriations of $1,125,000,000 for WPA, farm security administration and allied agencies. The WPA alone would get $985,000,000.

Under present law, an appropriation must be spread over 12 months. Under the administration plan the $985,000,000 would become available July 1 and could be spent in the next six or seven months, congress being called on for a deficiency appropriation in January if necessary.

Could Employ More

If the administration wins its lump sum fight and decides to exhaust the $985,000,000 in six or seven months, it could employ more people on WPA than are being employed in the present fiscal year.

The house appropriations deficiency subcommittee, which last year recommended the "Woodrum amendment" requiring WPA to spread its appropriation over 12 months, appeared likely to reject the administration plan.

Col. Francis P. Harrington, WPA commissioner, advocated abandon-

Germany Presses Charges Allies Seek To Slice Nation

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 5—The war aim of the Anglo-French allies is to divide the spoils of victory and slice Germany and Italy "back into the map of the middle ages."

That was the charge pressed home by every possible means by German authorities today as they pounded at the photograph, published by the French periodical L'illustration which showed American under Secretary Sumner Welles seated in the Paris office of French Premier Paul Reynald before a map picturing the boundaries of Germany considerably reduced.

(Editor's note: The French have contended that the boundary lines shown on the map were the result of a poor retouching job. In Washington Welles branded as "fantastic nonsense" all reports that he was shown a map outlining allied war aims, while conversing with Reynaud in Paris.)

The German public was warned that the alternative to a victory by the Reich over Britian and France would be an allied division of the spoils with dismemberment of Germany and Italy as now constituted.

It appeared that official German anger against Welles, who yesterday was accused of "bad taste" by an official German spokesman, has cooled somewhat overnight.

Today the official attitude was that the French "victimized" Welles during his European fact-finding tour as part of an allied campaign allegedly designed to convince the British and French public that "President Roosevelt soon would join them in the war."

Trade Treaty Extension Bill Near Decision

President Enters Battle In Opposition To One Year Extension Proposal

MEASURE SLATED FOR SENATE VOTE TODAY

Bill In Present Form Would Extend Reciprocal Trade Treaty Plan Three Years

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 5.—With the administration's trade treaty legislation slated for senate passage before the day is out, President Roosevelt today stepped into the battle with a vigorous utterance against a proposal to limit extension of the program to one year.

The executive based his objection on the assertion that it would renew general tariff debate next year and would be harmful to the nation—no matter whether a Republican or Democratic administration was in power.

Seek Three Year Extension

In its present form, as passed by the house and supported by the administration, the measure would extend the life of the reciprocal trade treaty program three years. The existing law expires June 30.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out at his press conference that whenever tariff was debated, no matter what party was in power, it was a general headache, with industry and agriculture thrown into confusion and economic processes slowed up.

He said that in his opinion, if congress was to be required to rewrite tariff schedules every year it would be a very bad thing and harmful to the nation.

Backed By Garner

The one-year restriction reputedly has the backing of Vice-President Garner, and when Mr. Roosevelt was asked about it at his press conference, he said he would talk on the subject from a novel point of view in a campaign year—the national point of view, regardless of which party might be in office.

He then listed his reasons for preferring the proposed three year extensions as sponsored by Secretary of State Hull and the armistration, which he said seemed to him to be a reasonably good thing for the country no matter what administration might be holding sway.

Although there were reports current that Garner favors the one-year limitation, there was considerable conflict over whether they were true. Sen. Adams (D) Col., who is considering offering the amendment, stated flatly today that the vice president was not backing it.

However, friends of Garner—particularly one prominent senate leader—were equally assertive that he does favor it. Garner, when approached by reporters, said nothing.

Declare Investigation Of Sources Of All Propaganda In U. S. Is Needed

SENATOR CLARK LEADER IN MOVE

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 5—Congressional investigation of foreign propaganda in America appeared imminent today, as demands multiplied for quizzing high state department officials on ambitions and plans of the allies in Europe's war.

American diplomats and foreign statesmen alike were raked over the coals as senators rallied to support the proposed $25,000 propaganda probe. Charges that U. S. envoys abroad radiated American sympathy for Britain and France echoed in the senate. Allied statesmen were attacked for "baiting" Uncle Sam to join them.

Seek Probe

Sen. LaFollette (P), Wis., headed a growing faction seeking passage of the resolution by Sen. Clark (D), Mo., providing for the inquiry. Senate audit and control committee Chairman Byrnes (D), S. C., was persuaded to schedule a hearing on the measure. Senate Democratic leaders refused to speak out against it, and ultimate approval was indicated.

"No time should be lost in passing the resolution for an investigation of all propaganda designed to influence the neutrality of the United States," declared LaFollette.

"Recent charges, denials and counter charges are disturbing to the American people. And well they might be. The results of propaganda prior to the World war were, alas, revealed after the war was over. We should not repeat this tragic mistake.

W. P. A. workers toiled through the night, repairing the break in the dike at Kingston to prevent further flooding of that area. The workers were placed on three shifts, filling in with sandbags, rock and earth.

ment of the "Woodrum amendment" at the deficiency subcommittee's first secret session on the new relief bill yesterday.

Battle Is Seen

Fearful that the administration, even if granted a lump sum, might slash WPA employment, a house group decided to battle to increase Mr. Roosevelt's budget recommendations.

"The budget recommendation for WPA, if adopted and spread over 12 months, will result in a reduction of an average of 800,000 persons on the WPA rolls," said Rep. Marcantonio (A-L), N. Y. "I am confident congress will raise the president's estimate so that WPA can be maintained at least at present levels."

Harrington, while standing by the budget estimate in explaining the relief situation to the house commitee, said there was a disturbing drop in employment continuing into March.

the head. She wrested the hammer from her, so her mother tried to burn her with matches, and failing in that Mrs. Davis applied a match to her own hair and nightgown.

4. Enveloped in flames, the mother screamed in agony and demanded that Chloe beat her to death with the hammer. Because she "was always obedient," she struck her mother, raining blows on her head until the hammer broke. She got another hammer and beat her mother until the woman was dead.

5. Hearing Mark moaning in the kitchen, the child said she executed the coup de grace for her brother, hammering him until he groaned no more. ("I did it to put him out of his misery," she said.)

6. Chloe than discarded her blood-stained pajamas, washed her hands and face, dressed as for school and started out to telephone to her father. Finding she had no money for a pay 'phone, she went to the home of neighbors, telling him only "you'd better come home."

Astounding Story

That was Chloe's story, a story that astounded even the most hardened "coppers" and reporters who have been working major crime stories in this city for many years. She would not change it, but Captain Edgar Edwards of the homicide squad said there were some discrepancies.

Although at a loss to establish a motive, Captain Edwards declared: "I believe Chloe committeed all the murders. According to my theory, she awakened while her mother was still in bed. She went into the kitchen killed her mother who was awakened by the screams of the children. Then she went into the bathroom and killed Ann. In an attempt to disguise her actions, she attempted to burn her mother's body. She found she couldn't burn the house, so she changed her clothing, thought up the 'demon' story and called her father."

When her father came home, according to the enigmatic child's story, she didn't tell him what happened, but let him see for himself, leading him from one death room to another.

"I told him to calm down," she told her questioners. He was crying and acting like he was crazy. He went out of the house and began walking up and down.

"I told him to brace up," she said.

Father Near Collapse

The father, near collapse and under care of physicians, could give no reason nor explanation of the crime. His wife, he said, had been under treatment of a physician for anemia, but he discounted reports that she "was losing her mind."

Devoted to his family, he was almost incoherent from shock.

The mother's nightgown had been burned off, and her body was scorched. More than 30 burned matches were found on the floor. But it was the hammer blows which caused her death, not fire, police said.

Strange were Chloe's later reactions, once a policewoman told her she "must try to forget what has happened."

"My father is the one who should try to forget it," Chloe replied "he's nuts."

George walked from the house and borrowed a neighbor's car on the pretext that he wanted to take his mother to the hospital. A policeman recognized him in Butler and arrested him without difficulty.

Police said they learned Moore had been despondent of late because of his inability to get a job.

Atlantic Dealers Hear Of Road Test

Dealers From Surrounding District Guests At Dinner Meeting Here

Over 250 Atlantic dealers from New Castle and surrounding points gathered at a dinner meeting at The Cathedral last evening, when facts about the great Florida Road Test were told them.

C. B. Sproull, New Castle district manager, presided at the dinner meeting and introduced B. M. Boor, of Pittsburgh, who is sales manager for Western Pennsylvania. Mr. Boor told of the road test which is now being conducted at West Palm Beach. He stated that twelve stock cars in the low-priced field are averaging fifty miles per hour over regular Florida highways in one of the greatest fact-finding tests that has ever been held. These cars have been in operation since January 8, and are averaging about 1,000 miles per day, each, so that Atlantic research men can learn more about motoring performance.

Each car has so far traveled over 80,000 miles, and all are performing as well as new, a remarkable tribute to the fifty-one non-professional drivers of the cars, and the Atlantic products they are testing.

heavy vote. His campaign for a heavy vote was made difficult by the fact he is unopposed on the Republican ballot.

Mr. Roosevelt, the new deal and the third term was also the strain that ran through the campaigns for all state offices. Besides personalities, there were few other issues. The "regular" Democratic slate of candidates for judgeships in Chicago courts headed their billboard advertising with the slogan "Roosevelt and humanity."

Republican candidates for such offices as governor and state treasurer pegged their campaigns on opposition to the new deal.

WATCHING PROPAGANDA

AMERICANS are much more aware of foreign propaganda than was the case during the World War. Up to then our experience for more than a generation had been so devoid of the necessity of studying European affairs that we were fair game for all efforts to sway us with foreign bunkum. Such, however, is not the case today. While the American people—most of them at least—have decided opinions as to the merits of the contending elements in the present European war they were thoroughly disillusioned with our experiences on the battlefields more than twenty years ago. Then we were led to believe we were fighting a war to end wars and to make the world safe for democracy. We know the series of tragic consequences that followed the great struggle.

The Dies Committee is now engaged in an effort to unearth subversive propaganda made either in America or abroad. It is a healthful sign too that the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has just approved a resolution for an investigation by that body of foreign propaganda disseminated in the United States.

The resolution provides for the appointment of seven Senators who are to make a "full and complete study and investigation of the activities of any person, firm or corporation acting for any nation, by way of propaganda or otherwise, having as their ultimate goal or tending to cause, directly or indirectly a change in the neutral position of the United States in the conflicts now being waged abroad."

The language of the resolution is certainly sweeping enough to accomplish the purpose of those behind it. Even the internationalists who would like to get us in the war, admit the soundness and legal purpose of such a resolution. They will counter, however, by stating that no such investigation and study is necessary, that there is no sizeable movement of international propaganda in the United States. But it will be remembered that the apologists for American communism used to say the same thing about red activities in the United States. In discussing the proposed resolution Senator Clark, of Missouri said:

"Everyone knows there is plenty of propaganda and those issuing it have a right to attempt to win this country's friendship for their side. But we have an equal right to keep the public informed as to the source of this propaganda, so that it can differentiate for itself. The only thing I have in mind is to find out what this propaganda consists of now, instead of waiting twenty years for the information."

NO WONDER THE MAN BROKE DOWN

The British Chief Censor, Sir Walter Monckton, has been ordered to take a two weeks' rest because of overwork. When he was given the job, following the retirement of Vice Admiral C. V. Osborne, the man who made the weather a war secret, it was hoped and expected that British newspapers would let up on their criticisms.

But the situation has grown worse, not better. British newspapers complain that the Germans get more news—and propaganda—into the American press than do the Allies. Unbiased American correspondents abroad agree that one reason is the "unprintable trash" issued by the British press division. An instance was a "big story" about a new war on rabbits issued a few days ago.

Sir Walter's overwork has consisted largely of an unsuccessful effort to overcome the binding restrictions imposed upon him by naval and military officials, who can't see, what the Germans have long since discovered, the high propaganda value of timely news releases.

THE AMERICAN WAY

In his recently published book on "The Living Tradition," Simeon Strunsky, a writer for the New York Times, concludes that, despite the economic and social upheavals of the 1930's, an overwhelming majority of Americans still cling to the traditions that have prevailed in more prosperous periods.

That is, of course, true. Radical panaceas have failed to make much headway even in these latter day periods of stress and strain. The rank and file of the American people are fundamentally conservative, albeit with an eye to sane and rational progress.

It is the good fortune of the republican form of government that a great nation, though sorely beset by the negative influences of prolonged depression and persistent efforts to regiment its people, should still adhere to the basic features of free enterprise and to the sound principles of representative government that have made the New World the scene of unhampered opportunity and individual accomplishment.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES

It is seldom that a town as small as Montoursville (population 2710, census of 1930) attracts national or even state-wide attention in the ordinary course of events, and yet, in recent weeks, the up and coming Lycoming county town has been singled out as an example of efficient municipal management for no other reason than it has balanced its budget.

Montoursville's outstanding debts have been liquidated and the borough has money in the bank.

Shocking as it may seem, there are countless adults living today who can remember when that state of affairs was not only expected and demanded by the taxpayers. There were instances of communities which countenanced extravagance, of course, but they were the exception rather than the rule.

Just as ability to balance a budget projected Governor Landon of Kansas into the presidential arena four years ago, officials of municipalities who do not require red ink to set up their annual statements are, it seems, entitled to become the center of attention.

But the simple formula for solvency of governmental subdivisions is, as with individuals, to keep outgo on a par with income. We have too long considered the possibility of continuing to spend public funds that are not in the till.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TOO MANY BOSSES SPOIL CHILD

"Dear Dr. Myers—We have a son, 13 years of age. We have had several complaints from teachers in school for bad work, and in all cases the teachers said he did not concentrate.

Of course, it is much harder to concentrate in a modern household than in a home some 30 or 40 years ago. My husband is 62 years of age and I am 50. I also have an older son, 21, and a father living in the home with us. In my mind, the boy in question has too many bosses. The grandfather wants to boss over all of us; the older brother tries to do his share; my husband is always nagging at him, and I am usually the "smoother-over' or 'go-between'. Now what is to be done with the boy?"

How I answered her:

"Please go on as the 'go-between', but do your 'going' while the boy is at school. Try to win the other adults to let the lad alone. You will be a wonder if you succeed in changing these adults toward the boy. The unfavorable family atmosphere this boy has to live in could cause his trouble at school. There also may be other causes.

Shouldn't Have Complained

"I wish the teachers had not complained to you that he did not concentrate. That is their job. Foolishly they assumed that by lecturing, scolding and punishing the lad at home, you can make him concentrate at school. Teachers with any training in psychology should know better. They should know that the more the boy is hounded at home, the less he will concentrate at school.

"I wish the teachers would seek to find ways at school of setting him to learning jobs easy enough for him to succeed at. You and I can't concentrate on what is too hard for us to achieve, or when failure always faces us. Concentration is a matter of interest and interest comes with success. Anything we can do to help a child succeed as he tries to learn should help him concentrate. We can't get concentration by commanding it any more than we could make a dead heart beat by commanding it to beat."

Common Sense

It amazes me that so many teachers appear to be wholly unfamiliar with the foregoing, simple principles of psychology. Just plain common sense should lead them to see the folly of complaining to the parents about the child's learning habits or even conduct at school. While the home may be chiefly responsible for both, whatever has been done at home has happened over years and years and, therefore, can be changed there only very slowly.

The average parent supposes he or she can, by a mere command at home, control the child's feeling, thinking and acting at school. If the teacher aids and abets the parent in this foolish belief, you can see the harm done to the child. Instead, the teacher should try to lead the parent to realize that only by slow, gradual means can the child be greatly changed at school. The wise teacher, therefore, in contacting or communicating with a parent, will do so in order to induce the parent to study the child there, and find ways of cultivating in him such attitudes and habits which will net results at school later.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. When I put my 16-months-old baby in his play pen and go to another room, he stands up and cries till great beads of perspiration stand out on him. He will cry until he is weak, and as soon as I come in and talk to him he will laugh and have a good time.

A. Go oftener to another room, leaving him, and don't hurry back. It might be well to plan a program over a few days, writing down a schedule you will follow to the minute. Say you will be absent five minutes the first time, eight the next, 12 the next, and so on. The crying won't hurt him and he will give up once he discovers it does not bring you to him.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NO CUSTOM DUTIES

Following the Supreme Court decision in the case involving interstate "trade barriers" to which I have referred in this column, Wisconsin's Senator Wiley introduced a resolution calling for the creation of a special committee of three Senators to study the trade barrier situation and to consider possible federal legislation to protect interstate trade from "artificial and unconstitutional" bars. His resolution follows the suggestion of the minority opinion in which three United States Supreme Court justices express the conviction that a complete remedy lies in the hands of Congress, if a remedy is needed.

Senator Wiley's resolution should have the considered thought of his colleagues. It seems to us it should be adopted, for trade barriers have become a serious problem, and the states seem to be unwilling to do anything about them. Under its power to control interstate commerce, Congress may well step into a vexing situation and find a way to free the country from trade stoppages which in some instances threaten serious consequences.

We have noticed that the crooks who commit the worst murders and other crimes do a lot of confessing and squawking after they are caught.

People will appreciate nice spring weather more than ever this year after the terrible winter we have gone through. Right here in Lawrence county is the prettiest country in the world in the summer time.

Another thing the world needs is a noble and useful way for people to die when they know the end is near, anyway.

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Just as I like girls to be feminine and boys to be masculine, I like children to be childish—to "be their age," at least. I just had tea with an old schoolmate whose bright hopeful, about 12, sat staring at all of us through his horn-rimmed spectacles, contradicting our opinions of screen stars, radio talent and war problems. Of course, his fond mama sat by, doting and gloating. "Oh, see what a smart boy have I," her eyes proclaimed.

The pathetic side of the picture is that such "shown off" children seldom become real prodigies. They usually wind up as square pegs in round holes— as disagreeable spouses, unpopular lonely old people.

Reader's Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I am to have some business cards made. Please guide me in this matter, as to size arrangements and wording.—John.

Answer: Your business cards may or may not be larger than your personal cards. This fact is usually determined by the amount of wording to be placed thereon.

The title "Mr." is generally omitted from business cards but not necessarily so. The address should be in the lower, right-hand corner and the telephone number is ordinarily inserted in the corner opposite. Your profession may be placed directly under your name.

If you must place the name of your company in the center of the card, your name should then be placed in the lower left hand corner and the telephone number in the upper left hand corner, leaving the address as stated in the lower right hand corner.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three cent stamped envelope.

Need of Diplomacy Is Important
Recent Occurrences Are Detailed
Ambassadors Are Poor Diplomats

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Germany's story that a couple of American ambassadors (Joseph P. Kennedy in London and William C. Bullitt in Paris) committed the United States to a pro-Polish attitude against the Reich, in chats with Poland's envoys, before the pending European war started, is not going to be provable either way.

Minister Cromwell, our diplomatic representative in Canada, made a public pro-Ally speech in Toronto. It was a matter of stenographic record. A big crowd heard it. It isn't disputed.

But Ambassadors Kennedy's and Bullitt's alleged confabs with Polish "fixers" (if they occurred at all) were confidential. The Poles' account of them is only in accordance with the Poles' recollections. Moreover, maybe they never occurred, either. President Roosevelt said they needed to be taken "with a grain of salt"—or "several grains". He might have said a "barrel of salt", if he had in mind a 100 per cent denial. Merely "several grains" was a trifle weak, in the circumstances. State Secretary Hull said absolutely that he didn't believe 'em. That was flat-footed enough. Ambassador Bullitt's denial also was sufficiently unqualified. He said he didn't say what he was quoted as saying. But did that mean that he was quoted inaccurately?—or that he didn't even imply what it was asserted he implied. Ambassador Kennedy, at least initially, chose not to answer the German "white paper". Possibly he didn't consider it worth notice.

Germany's Version

The German version is to the effect that it got its information from papers it seized in Warsaw, when it gobbled Poland.

Perhaps it did seize 'em.

Or perhaps it's faking them.

Berlin contends that they're photostatic copies. But who knows who wrote the originals? Most of them are written in Polish. However, plenty of Germans can write Polish.

The trouble is that we're suspicious of our diplomacy—not its good-will, by its judgment.

Minister Cromwell made an unquestioned bad break in Canada. How about Ambassadors Kennedy and Bullitt in London and Paris respectively?

It's proved against Cromwell. How about Kennedy and Bullitt?

Cromwell? Kennedy? Bullitt?

Cromwell didn't have any diplomatic qualifications except that he had money. He was just a plutocrat. He hadn't ordinary sense of any sort.

Kennedy was a good business man. He made his own money. Generally speaking, it was taken for granted that he ought to be o. k. in world affairs, as intranationally. You can't tell about that, though. International and intra-national affairs are different.

I've known Bill Bullitt for years. I believe what he says, textually.

But that bird belongs to one of the "first families of Philadelphia". He estimates himself as speaking for the United States generally. If he says he didn't say so-and-so, I believe him.

But, broadly, he has his ideas. I've heard him discuss 'em.

He thinks he knows what's best for this country. And for the world.

To put it mildly, Bill's conceited.

Joe Kennedy isn't a bit conceited; he's inexperienced. He's a dandy business man, but he's a child diplomatically.

Bill's utterly impractical.

The nub of it is:

We simply haven't any diplomacy.

It's important at this stage of the game.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1940) by The Baltimore Sun

Toward Socialization

WASHINGTON, April 5.

THOSE who believe that the half-baked, ill-considered New Deal effort to help the "underprivileged" not only fails in that but weakens the national foundations and threatens general disaster will find much to sustain their point of view in the so-called "Farm Credit Act of 1940", recently indorsed "in principle" by Mr. Wallace and behind which the Administration has placed its weight.

EVEN with that, such a bill can pass only through a combination of inertia and lack of understanding, in Congress and out. No more radical and dangerous measure has been presented in a long time. It fulfills the predictions made months ago, and vehemently denied, that when, under the Presidential reorganization order, the Farm Credit Administration was taken over by the AAA it would lose its independence, be socialized, radicalized and, in effect, ruined.

BY an arbitrary reduction in interest rates on farm mortgages and loans, and under the guise of relieving oppressed farmers of unduly heavy burdens, this measure practically pulls the props from under the Federal Land Bank and ends the long self-sustaining and self-respecting career of those institutions. Under it, these banks will no longer be able to operate on business principles, but, because of the reduced rates, the provisions for scaling down mortgages, the easing up of payments, the relieving of the mortgaged from personal responsibility and other extraordinary and heretofore unheard-of financial stipulations, will be compelled to operate at a deficit to be made up by the Government.

THE cost of this to the Treasury, it is claimed, may run $20,000,000 a year and it may run more than $100,000,000. But a measure of its unsoundness is in the fact that under it the Government will now have to guarantee the Farm Land bonds because it is made impossible for the Farm Land Banks to break even. The scheme will add greatly to the drain on the Treasury, increase the national deficit, transform a sound Governmental agency into a shaky one, brings us a little closer to the brink of bankruptcy. It sems incredible, but there it is, indorsed "in principle" by the Secretary of Agriculture, ardently supported by the farmers and the extreme Left Wingers in the New Deal.

IF this bill goes through, the policy of "sound loans" will give way to a policy of loans on "social grounds". The emphasis which has been upon the self-supporting farmers will now be transferred to the non-self-supporting, the sub-average, the "naturals" for resettlement, rehabilitation and Government subsidies. The contention is that if it is enacted the Government will be in position to pass out to the less sturdy type of farmers almost unlimited money; to compel acquiescence in its control program and in the long run to acquire hundreds fo thousands of mortgaged farms.

IT is a raw device for giving additional subsidies to the farmers, whose present subsidies are a tremendous strain on the Government and a terrific burden on the taxpayers. It is a jump, under election-year pressure, straight into socialism in the field of farm-mortgage money, which is bound to lead to Government landlordism on a large scale. If additional subsidies must be given it would be vastly better to make an outright cash grant to all the farmers rather than to create, as this bill does, a long-term Governmental burden of billions of dollars and have the Government finally wind up the owner of several million acres of worthless land.

NEITHER the general public nor the farmers are as yet aware of the full implications of this bill. Nor will they be if the Administration can help it. The hope is to railroad it through at this session, and an attempt is made to convey the impression that it is only a "technical revision", unimportant, but too complex for the public to understand. There is nothing technical and nothing trivial about the bill. It is true it is complex and confused, with many queer financial gadgets which there is no space here to present. But, in it main provisions it substitutes for a sound and tested banking system by which farmers have beeen aided for years an unsound and dangerous one which will enable the Administration in an election year to "lend" money to the shiftless on social and political grounds.

IN the end it will drive private capital clear out of the farm-mortgage field and establish a Government ownership and control hard to exaggerate. Under it, the Government will own the whole farm-mortgage lending system. Its bureau heads will fix the loan policies. These will cease to be based on banking or business principles, but will be changed from time to time to suit the political tides. Always, and inevitably of course, the changes will be in the direction of easier terms. Partly concealed and, of course, denied, this bill is a great step toward the complete socialization of agriculture. It is encouraging that some of the more solid farm organizations are beginning to appreciate what it means and revolt.

Charge Trigger Men Sent To New York To "Get" Witnesses

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 5.—A widespread dragnet was instituted today for two characters District Attorney William O'Dwyer of Brooklyn described as out-of-town "trigger men" who came to New York to "liquidate" as many hostile witnesses as possible against the Brooklyn murder syndicate.

O'Dwyer identified the alleged "imported killers" as Isadore Bernstein, a member of the Purple Gang of Detroit and Ben "Bugs" Siegel, a reputed leading Los Angeles racketeer.

Meanwhile, the New York Journal and American reported in an exclusive story that it had uncovered a link connecting the Brooklyn mob with the garment industry racket once headed by Louis (Lepke) Buchalter. Its story was based on the recital of a man who claimed his $50,000 a year trucking business was wrecked by the mobsters through terrorism.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

"Have I got any static, Doctor?"

Doctors useing a stethoscope, are sometimes asked this.

It is supposed to be a joke, but doctors actually hear static.

A stethoscope is what the name applies—"chest examiner."

It was invented by a French physician, Theophile Laennec, in 1819.

Before that time, physicians thumped the chest and listened.

Laennec first rolled a sheet of paper into a tube.

He placed one end on the patient's chest, the other to his ear.

Sounds, amplified in this way, informed him of chest conditions.

The modern stethoscope applies this same principle.

According to conditions sounds heard are rhythmic or altered.

The stethoscope is a simple instrument, but very important.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 5.—Abandonment of construction of the security prison at Mt. Gretna by the general state authority will cost the state about $50,000 less than was anticipated. Governor James halted construction of the prison despite the fact that the state stands to lose approximately $850,000. Meanwhile, however, it became known that an additional $80,000 would have to expended for corrections in construction at the new Pennsylvania Industrial School for boys at White Hill.

The Dauphin County court decision upholding the right of milk dealers to sell a farmer's output on consignment without state regulation was viewed by the Milk Control Commission as "striking at the heart of milk control in Pennsylvania". The court ruled that the commission lacked authority to act against a dealer who takes a farmer's milk, processes it and sells it at his own prices, remitting to the producer whatever sum was specified in what is called a consignment contract.

Coveted top place on the Democratic primary ballot for U. S. senator has gone to Walter A. Jones, chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission. His chief opponent, U. S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffey, was forced to take third position. The candidates, along with aspirants for state house and senate jobs, district delegates to the national convention, auditor general, and state treasurer, drew for ballot positions in the house of representatives.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission is seeking a legal opinion as to the extent of its police powers on the $71,000,000 super-highway to stretch between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg. Officials contend that under the Turnpike law no police powers sufficient for arrest were included. It was pointed out that unless a definite stand is taken on the question, Turnpike police may be empowered only to warn motorists against violations.

Governor James told of an elderly gentleman from Elizabethtown approaching him at a dinner in Harrisburg recently and asking: "Did anyone ever tell you you looked like James?" The governor replied in the negative. "My friends and I had an argument," the man continued. "I said you weren't James and they said you were. Did you ever meet him?" Again the governor replied negatively.

"Well," the old man went on, "I'm going up to the Capitol to see him one of these days to see what kind of a fellow he is". The governor suggested that it might be "pretty hard" to get in to see the chief executive. "That's what I hear," the man asserted," but I'll get in and when I do I'll tell you how to do it." When the governor introduced the other to two superior court judges beside him a look of suspicion appeared on the man's face. "Maybe you are James," he said. The governor displayed his hat with the name "Arthur H. James" stamped in it. Red-faced, the man sat down.

Ohio Flyers Use Airport Here To Avoid Muddy Field

Mike Kardos and Donald VanTassel, instructors at a Youngstown air field, have been using the New Castle Airport for their instruction work, due to the muddy condition at their home field.

Amos Pleads For Justice

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

BY NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 7 is Amos 5, 7, the Golden Text being Amos 5:15. "Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish justice in the gate.")

The lesson today commences the second quarter of our series. In our last, you remember, the Risen Christ exhorted His followers to go "and make disciples of all nations."

This lesson goes back to several hundred years before Christ, in or about 760 B. C., when Uzziah was king of Judah, and Jeroboam II reigned over Israel. It was a time of great oppression of the very poor and of dishonesty, debauchery and general wickedness. The rich lived in luxury on the products of dishonest trading, false weights, the sale of worthless goods, bribery, etc. They had beautiful summer and winter homes, where they ate, drank and caroused to excess. The poor and those who were cheated had no redress in the courts, for the judges also were dishonest, and their judgments often were "fixed" by those who were willing to pay them.

Amos, whose name means "burden" or "burden-bearer," was a humble shepherd living "among the herdsmen of Tekoa," on the edge of the desert, about 12 miles south of Jerusalem. He raised a peculiar breed of sheep, stunted and ugly in appearance, but valued for their fine wool. He also described himself as a "dresser of sycomore trees." Thus he was a countryman, living close to nature, but he must have had dealings in the cities and knew the wickedness of many who dwelt therein.

Uses Classical Language

In spite of the fact that Amos was apparently unlettered, he is, says one commentator, "the author of the purest and most classical Hebrew in the Old Testament.' As he himself said: "I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's son; but I was a herdsman, and a gatherer of sycomore fruit:

"And the Lord took me as I followed the flock, and the Lord said unto me, Go, prophesy unto My people Israel."

So Amos went to Bethel, where the court was, and plainly told the wicked people what would happen to them if they did not forsake their evil ways. He was not afraid to approach the highest in the land, this humble shepherd, and gave them the message that the Lord had given him.

Hear ye this word which I take up for a lamentation over you, O house of Israel.

"They hate him that reproveth in the gate, and they abhor him that speaketh uprightly.

"Forasmuch therefore as ye trample upon the poor, and take exactions from him of wheat; ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them, ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink the wine thereof.

God Knows Their Transgressions

"For I know how manifold are your transgressions, and how mighty are your sins—ye that afflict the just, that take a bribe, and that turn aside the needy in the gate from their right. . .

"Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live; and so Jehovah, the God of hosts, will be with you, as ye say.

"Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish justice in the gate."

He told them that Jehovah hated their feasts and their burnt offerings, and took no delight in their solemn assemblies, because they lived evil lives, not following the laws God had given them. For a long time Amos preached and exhorted the people, and at last he aroused Amaziah, the head of the church, who denounced Amos to Jeroboam, the king, and then told him to go away, saying "O thou seer, go, flee away into the land of Judah, and there eat bread and prophesy there. But prophesy not again any more at Bethel for it is the king's chapel, and it is the king's court."

Amos told him then how the Lord had come to him and told him to go to try to save the people from destruction. Their land he said would be given to their enemies, the king killed, and the people would be taken captive and driven from their homes. He told of visions which the Lord had sent him. In the first the whole country was laid waste by locusts which ate every green thing. When he interceded, the Lord withdrew that threatening; the next was an all-devouring fire, which was also called off at Amos' behest; and the third was a vision of the Lord with a plumbline, measuring the kingdom to cast it down.

Amos refused to be silenced by the head priest. What was the eventual fate of this fearless man no one seems to know, but it is thought he returned to his home place and lived quietly to the end of his days. His prophecies, however, actually came to pass.

NAZI PLANES FIRE ON PASSENGER SHIP

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 5—A bombing attack against an unidentified passenger vessel by a squadron of German planes near a British convoy was reported by the London Daily Mail today in a Stockholm dispatch.

The attack, which occurred Wednesday night, failed and the planes were driven off by shells from an escorting British destroyer, the report stated. None of the vessel's 107 passengers was hurt.

Why not make this year your "Big Moment?"

Above is the Buick SPECIAL 4-door touring sedan $996

WE'RE talking here to those thousands who have not yet achieved a lifetime ambition. That is to say, they don't yet own a Buick.

We want to point out a few facts about the Buick SPECIAL pictured here—show how it swings wide the door on a golden opportunity.

Step into this sleek sweetheart. Your treadle foot touches off a trigger-quick Dynaflash straight-eight engine that's just about the smoothest thing that runs, thanks to micro-poised-balancing after assembly.

Swing through the gear changes and you find the same easy, finger-flick shifting as in the most costly Buick. And the same recoil-mounted Knee-Action soaking up bumps before they reach your hand on the steering wheel.

Take a rough road in stride. You'll find that stout Buic-Coil Springs muffle out the bumps — and they'll never need lubrication.

Look out through the easy-vision Safety Plate Glass in every window. Check up on the equipment: Two-Way Direction Signal with automatic cut-off, built-in automatic choke, oil-filter, high-capacity water pump—they're all there.

Here's the smart style, the blithe performance and the solid, substantial Buick quality of materials and workmanship that make this the car you've been looking forward to.

Yet the figures on the SPECIAL make you think it's a six instead of a husky straight-eight. Indeed, when you count in the included equipment, it costs no more than some cars with lower advertised prices.

So look into the Buick SPECIAL. See if this isn't the time to "step up" to the car you've always wanted.

You can take a trial drive any time just by asking your Buick dealer.

Prices begin at $895 for Business Coupe —Sedan prices start at $955—delivered at Flint, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.*

KIDNAPPING THEORY STRONGLY DOUBTED

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 5—Police were inclined today to doubt a possible kidnaping theory in the disappearance of Sylvia Ladd von Gontard after it was established she had cashed a $90 check before dropping from sight last Tuesday.

It was now believed by police the 20 year old girl might have wanted to avoid becoming enmeshed in court litigation over the estate of her father, Baron Alexander Karl Frederich von Gontard, a wealthy sugar broken.

March Temperatures Were Below Normal

Deficiency Of Over Three Degrees Per Day Is Shown In Records

March proved one of the coldest months of the winter, with a deficiency of 3.3 per degrees per day, the figures of U. S. Weather Observer B. F. Johnson reveal. March in 1939 was almost that much over the normal, the contrast between the two being very striking. From March 5 to 27 inclusive, the temperature never rose above freezing point, 32 degrees.

The mean maximum temperature for the month was 42 degrees, the mean minimum, 25.4 degrees, and the mean, or average for the month, 33.7 degrees. The highest temperature was 73 degrees on March 29, while the lowest was 8 degrees, recorded successively on the 23 and 24. The greatest daily range was 34 degrees on March 18.

The total precipitation for March was 3.37 inches, the greatest in 24 hours being .61 inches on the 14th. The total snowfall was 8.4 inches. Days with .01 inches or more of precipitation were 16, days clear, 7; partly cloudy, 7; and cloudy, 17.

The normal precipitation for March is 3.04 inches, an excess of .33 inches being shown. In March of 1939, there was an excess of 1.92 inches. The normal temperature for March is 37 degrees. In March of 1939 it was 2.6 degrees above the normal. There was only an half inch of snowfall in March last year.

Local Chapter Representatives Study Methods In Allegheny County

Miss Margaret F. Bodenstein, executive director of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, and Mrs. Gordon Klein, chairman of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, spent Wednesday in the Pittsburgh office of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Klein conferred with Miss Eina Smitten, director of nursing of the Pittsburgh chapter, when many of the problems confronting the reorganization of this service for the local chapter were discussed and plans for a future conference made. At the same time, Miss Bodenstein spent some time with Director Flecher of the bureau of social research exchange of the Community Chest, whose methods were studied.

An invitation was received from Mrs. William Alter, chairman of the Gray Ladies, the volunteer service at the Allegheny county veterans hospitals, to attend the graduation exercises at Aspinwall, April 10. Mrs. John E. Elliott, chairman of Volunteer Service, accompanied by a number of the women who are in charge of different services of the chapter plan to attend.

No cases were tried Thursday in Lawrence County courts. The list for the week has been cleaned up faster than was anticipated due to settlements. One case remains and it was not possible to get it to trial Thursday. It is the case of Mooney Brothers versus Louis A. Haug for the rental of equipment in the construction of a building. The plaintiffs allege they rented the equipment to H. J. Ainslee, sub-contractor, but that Mr. Haug guaranteed payment for the rent.

In the case of Walter Blaine Smith, a minor by his father Walter Smith and Walter and Pauline Smith in their own right against R. R. Grim, the jury returned a verdict of $300, the minor child getting half and his parents half. The boy was injured in a collision between his father's car and the car of the defendant.

Attorney Merle B. Hildebrand has been admitted to practice in the state supreme court of Pennsylvania and the Federal courts for the western district of Pennsylvania.

It is merely coincidental of course but there are three law firms practicing in the Lawrence County courts composed of fathers and sons and in each case the father is a former judge of the county. The three are Martin and Martin, Chambers and Chambers and Hildebrand and Hildebrand.

Prothonotary John A. Edgar is preparing for a headache in May. Naturalization court comes on May 27, 28, 29, 31 and there are 268 cases to be heard.

Charles D. Ross, chief clerk to the Permanent Registration Board has almost completed the street lists of voters. He finds that the first precenct of the second ward of his own town, Ellwood City is the largest in the county, there being over 800 voters registered there. This ward is the divided ward of Ellwood City, part of it being in Beaver County. In local elections for council or school board they vote as Ellwood City residents. In county wide or state wide elections they vote as voters of Beaver county.

German And Allied Patrols Tangle And Nazis Are Repulsed

(International News Service)

PARIS, April 5.—The western front from the sector east of the Moselle river to the Vosges mountains was agitated today by usually heavy German patrol activities which resulted in numerous combats between the Nazi scouts and allied outposts.

One French outpost in the Nied river area suffered losses as the result of a violent German artillery and trench mortar barrage, but finally succeeded in repulsing the attack, according to reports to Paris.

(Editor's note: A German war communique stated: "Shock troops southwest of Saarlautern dislodged an enemy outpost. The latter left behind 15 dead.")

Several individual German planes bombed and strafed French troops and an artillery duel broke out east of the Moselle.

Along the Rhine front the French "blasted" the enemy with pacifist propaganda by means of loud speakers.

The official French war communique stated: "Nothing to report."

Babson Says Democracy Is Facing Purge Of Some Kind; Maybe Voting Change

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1940, Publishers Financial Bureau)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—Democracy is facing a purging of some kind. For Democracy to succeed, it must, in some way, be revised. Otherwise, with those on relief propagating proportionately more rapidly than the employed, with dependent wage workers increasing in percentage more rapidly than those willing to employ others, Democracy—as now set up—is headed for the rocks! Some character and intelligence tests must be discovered and applied to separate the "fit" from the "unfit" when it comes to voting.

BABSON

My mail is crammed with letters suggesting that people on relief should not be allowed to vote while on relief. Some good citizens believe that Government employes should not vote. Others even go so far as to say that only those who work either as wage workers or employers should vote. They point out that the Constitution prohibits the residents of the District of Columbia from voting. As I travel about the country, I find a strong and growing feeling on this franchise question. More and more people believe that unemployment will be solved only as it becomes a disgrace not to work in some capacity.

One Vote Per City

I can't go so far as to believe we should disfranchise anyone. But, I do believe that we must adopt the Unit Voting System on state and national matters. Each citizen should directly vote for the officials of his own town or city as he does now. In state and national elections, however, a city or town should have only one vote. As a man has only one vote irrespective of his wealth, as a Congressional district has only one vote, irrespective of its acreage, so a political unit should have only one vote, irrespective of its population. By giving city voters freedom from state interference in running their own affairs, they would quickly agree to such a constitutional amendment.

Another plan and one which is creating much interest in Southern California—our national political laboratory—is the Double Voting System. This gives one vote to every citizen over 21 and two votes to all citizens who pay taxes. This new plan is being pushed hard by conservative elements in those states suffering from "Ham and Eggs" and similar economic diseases. Without doubt, this plan has merits if it can legally be put into effect.

Religious Test Proposed

There are other ideas today. Yesterday, a letter came to me from a group of ministers suggesting a sort of religious test for the voting privilege. Their plan is wholly undenominational. Protestants, Catholics and Hebrews—all would get the vote if they were members of the church. Yet, in the same mail I received a letter from a candidate for governor of a near-by state which shows clearly that a church membership test for the vote would not necessarily solve our troubles.

This candidate promises $3 automobile license tags, $40 monthly to the aged, free medical aid, no toll roads nor toll bridges, protection for small business men "now losing money," higher wages and lower prices! Among his "qualifications" for being governor, this man says he is "an active member of the Methodist church." With due respect to methodism, certainly this man's religion does not prevent him from making promises which he knows that he cannot fulfill!

No "Church Front"

In this connection, let me say that methodism, as a whole, presents a sorry picture at elections. On the first Sunday of November, 1940, over 8,000,000 Methodist church members will sing the same hymns, read the same Bible, and say the same prayers. On November 5, they will go to the polls and vote—4,000,000 for the Republican candidate and 4,000,000 for the Democratic candidate with a scattered few for the Prohibition candidate. Members of most other church denominations will do the same.

As a result, the political leaders at Washington and elsewhere need give no heed or thought to what church members think or want! Notwithstanding this, I still say that the only hope for democracy is a sane spiritual revival. The churches should lead in this revival. They have the potential power, the people, and the plants. They are tax exempt and possess great endowments. They, however, must again preach the Cross and the necessity of sacrifice. Our churches will never get to first base by imitating popular service luncheon clubs!

"Deals" Not True Answer

The Republicans claim that if the Administration would only "unshackle" business again, giving it freedom from unnecessary regulation and high taxes, then unemployment would vanish. Yet, business was thus free for over 30 years previous to the panic of 1929—the latter coming in a Republican Administration. The Democrats argue that if the Administration would only further "increase purchasing power" by forcing wages higher and prices lower, then unemployment would vanish. Yet, the Administration has done this for nearly eight years and we have as much unemployment today as ever.

The truth is that no legislation—Old Deal or New Deal—will succeed in putting people back to work until the purposes, ambitions, and motives of people are changed. People of all groups—rich and poor—must be taught by churches, schools, movies, radios and newspapers:

(1) That only as more is produced is there more to divide.

(2) That the failure to use the idle money, idle labor and idle machinery now existing is as wicked as to plow up cotton or kill little pigs.

(3) That loafing is a sin for both the rich and poor.

(4) That their future rests with raising the total national character and income.

(5) That the only fair unemployment legislation would be to "quota" the unemployed on industry, giving some tax or other rebate to employers of said "quotas."

It's as true today as it was 2,000 years ago:—"As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Sanitarium Heads Entertain Doctors

Medical Society Dines There, Hears Pittsburgh Clinic Head

Members of the Lawrence County Medical society were guests at a dinner in The Overlook, New Wilmington sanitarium, Thursday night and afterward heard Dr. Harry M. Little, director of the Child Guidance Clinic of Pittsburgh, speak on "The Problems of Child Guidance".

The county doctors were the guests of Dr. Elizabeth McLaughry, sanitarium head, and during their stay made a tour of inspection thru the institution.

Dr. Little, principal speaker, was introduced by Dr. Elizabeth Veach, member of The Overlook staff and associate hostess for the evening.

The physicians, during their short business session presided over by Dr. R. G. Campbell, president, dicussed local matters bearing upon the inauguration on May 17 of Pennsylvania's new pre-marital syphilis examination law.

The society turned over the matter to its public relations committee and called for a report at its early May meeting. Dr. John O. Woods heads the public relations group.

New Flower Beds Are Being Made In Public Square Plot

Workmen employed by the city, are making three circular flower beds on the western end of the park, on the Diamond. Beneath that location, sewer gas has been permeating the soil from below, causing failure of plants and flowers to grow there. State horticulturists advised Owen Fox, city forester, having part of the depth of soil closed off by concrete, to keep down the gas seepage.

Brick work, 1½ feet high, capped with stone, will surround each flower bed, having a concrete base, with outlet for drainage. This enclosure filled with new soil, it is believed the difficulty heretofore encountered will be eradicated.

Mr. Fox states that twelve tons of top soil have been used to cover up by rolling, the indiscirminate walking over the grass during the fall and winter.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

DIABETES

My own observations as well as those of other medical men, incline me to the belief that heredity is a factor in diabetes. Now I don't mean that anybody inherits diabetes, for that isn't the case. What I do mean is that some children are born with an inherited weakness which makes them liable to develop the disease.

As explained here recently, diabetes results when the body loses ability to convert sugar into fuel and allows it instead to accumulate in the blood stream and poison the system. In order to digest sugar, the system needs the help of a product called insulin manufactured by Islands of Langerhans which lie in the pancreas.

Apparently there are recessive genes for weak Islands of Langerhans. By that, I mean that when two people with this recessive gene mate, the children are likely to inherit the weakness.

However, just because you inherit this weakness doesn't mean that you will develop diabetes. Actually, these weak islands may function perfectly well all through life if they are never overstrained.

Child birth is often followed by diabetes in women. The reason is that pregnancy places a strain upon these islands of Langerhans. If the woman has inherited weak ones, from her parents, then she may well develop diabetes. This is one reason why there are over twice as many diabetics amongst women as among men. This doesn't mean that women more than men inherit the tendency but just that women over-strain these organs more than men do.

Overwork, overeating, too much worry or work, in fact any excess in a person with a weakness of this kind can bring on diabetes. Where the family has shown cases of diabetes, special precautions in habits of its members will often be enough to avert the disease. Here is where a family doctor is valuable. If he treats a family for two or three or four generations, as many of us do, then we know what weaknesses to expect in children.

The most important precaution is to eat a diet low in sugar, and starches and never to overeat. Too many sugars and starches make the Islands of Langerhans work overtime in order to produce more insulin to convert them. This overworking weak ones strains them so that they often ceases functioning altogether. When this happens, then we have a bad case of diabetes.

I remember one case in which there had been diabetes in the families of both parents of a young woman. When she was old enough to understand, I took her aside and told her of the danger of diabetes in her case. I put her on a diet, and every time I met her, I reminded her not to eat too much and to see that she didn't get too too much sugar or starch.

Finally the girl went to the city and there she got away from the diet. It wasn't long before she developed the disease and now she must take insulin and watch her diet as well.

During wartime, blockades become a lifesaver from the standpoint of diabetics. For when food is rationed sugar is uusally one of the first things to be scarce. The number of deaths from diabetes dropped sharply during the last war and rose again when it was over.

Shenango Athletes Honored At Banquet

Grover Washabaugh, Dave Boyd And C. A. Landolf Are Among Speakers

EVENT IS HELD THURSDAY NIGHT

Shenango Township High climaxed its athletic season with a four star banquet honoring the basketball-football squads on Thursday night.

Glenn Johnston, principal, served as toastmaster and proved to be of the felicitous variety. After welcoming the more than 50 persons present and lauding the athletes, Johnston introduced Grover C. Washabaugh, Westminster College coach.

The genial Titan mentor urged the young men and young women to engage in other school activities besides athletics. He stressed courage, obedience, loyalty, team spirit, sportsmanship and cooperation. He commended the group for their fighting spirit and wished them success.

David Boyd, ex-Union Township High coach and now affiliated with the physical education department of Westminster College, turned back the pages of history and recited several experiences encountered while coaching the Scotland Lane school. Boyd pointed out that he always has had a high respect for Shenango Township.

Charles A. Landolf, New Castle News sportswriter, congratulated the athletes for their undaunted spirit. He said that athletics in Shenango High are on a paying basis, perhaps not financially, but in more intangible ways. Landolf expressed the belief that athletics play a major part in the development of the type of character which a democratic nation such as the United States values and cherishes.

For the next hour, the gathering was entertained by Amil Lelenko, a talented local young man. The Cunningham avenue product was at his best. He staged one of the most side-splitting performances ever witnessed in the East New Castle institution.

Anna Hordig and Alice Dombroski, members of the girls' team, Norman Currie, football captain, and Walter Ovis, cage captain, followed with brief talks. They complimented their teammates and thanked the respective coaches for their efforts. Miss Dombroski presented Miss Frances Boozer, girls' coach, with a valuable gift. Miss Boozer thanked the young ladies and wished them success.

Frank Nocera, the popular coach, praised the boys for their determination, loyalty and cooperation. He extended best wishes to the departing seniors. He also thanked Robert Boal and Eugene Snyder who assisted him during the past season.

Nocera then presented football letters to the following boys:

Frank Tuscano, James Newton, David Francescone, Robert Marks, Norman Currie, Ray Fredericks, P. Sherlak, W. Druschel, J. Hanna, W. Cwynar, M. Petro, B. Denny, A. Semansky, J. Dudash, B. Donley, S. Mooney, M. Frengel, B. Latham, R. Donley, Arthur Cline, and L. Kiser, student manager.

It was announced that the boys and girls will receive basketball letters at a later date.

Ray Fredericks, a co-captain, spoke briefly. He complimented his mates and praised Coach Nocera.

At the conclusion, Nocera was presented with a gift.

Schmeling Asks For Another Bout With Joe Louis

Mike Jacobs Gets Card From Former German Champion, Wants Summer Bout

STEVE FILAPOWICZ NEW FORDHAM FLASH

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 5—Along Broadway today we find....Sunny Jim Crowley of Fordham....Chuckling over his new bow-legged sophomore phenom....Steve Filapowicz ...."who can part your hair with a pigskin at 30 paces....."

And Jim's side-kick....Jack Coffey....who expects his Maroons to be the strongest nine in Eastern college circles this semester....

Here's old Snow White himself... Dan (AAU) Ferris....planning the Pan-American games.... for late August.... to replace the lost Olympics....

And Mike Jacobs is showing a Berlin-dated postcard from Max Schmeling....in which the ex-heavyweight king hopes "to come over this summer...." for a third shot at Joe Louis.....

Paavo Nurmi still insists the mile can and should be run in four minutes flat...."and the way to do it is to string together four 60-second quarters....."

That reminds me word from Notre Dame....has Greg Rise "resting"... by jogging five miles every day.... from his job in a South Bend power plant to his home....and further West Iowa still calls its ball club "the Yankees of the Big Ten....."

Dempsey To Referee

Jack Dempsey is enroute to Caracas, Venezuela....to referee the Escobar-Chavez bantam bout.... for which he is getting $4,000...plus expenses....and that reminds me the old Manassa mauler drags down about 75 G's a year for such chores.

Did I tell you that Ben (Evil Eye) Finkle....the ring's jinx....is being paid to broadcast?....or that Vincent Healey....Navy's crack quarter miler....is a younger brother of Jim....who was a member of the Penn quarter which set a world mile relay mark eight years ago?...

Imaginative Billy Ames relays that there will be no skullduggery at the Narragansett track this year..."because the Pinkertons have rogues-galleried all horse"....and, "no photo, no race...."

That reminds us that Aqueduct has stretched the $20,000 Brooklyn handicap and the $10,000 Dwyer takes another furlong to a mile and a quarter....

And Bill (National League) Brandt declares Ernie Joy....Dodger outfielder....is French-German and not Indian....But admits that Ben Tincup....new Dodger coach is a Cherokee is good standing....

And while angling around we learn that the Cat Cay club of Bahamas has issued a $10,000 defi to the Catalina Tuna club....for a Bluefin tuna fishing contest....to be held off Cat Cay May 25 to June 5 ....That's when the big ones start swimming north in huge schools.... and the average tuna landed last year weighed 447½....Selah.

Coast Rookie Has Fast Ball

Bob Jensen, 19, Is With San Francisco Seals, Pitches In Stocking Feet

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 5—A colorful and eccentric rookie right-hand pitcher, 19 year old Bob Jensen today was tabbed "shoeless Bob" by his teammates on the San Francisco seals.

The six-foot-two youngster hailed as Manager Lefty O'Doul's "find" of the year, won his new nickname by an act in the bush leagues last season—an act that his teammates believe he might be moved to repeat in the Pacific coast league.

Jensen, son of a ferryboat captain last year wore baseball shoes that were too tight. He didn't have money enough to buy a new pair, so, then things got tough and he had to bear down, he'd take off his shoes and pitch in his stocking feet.

Since the season opened, Bob has amazed veteran pitchers with his fast ball, a delivery which O'Doul says compares with Bob Feller's fastest. And Bob insists that the Vets stay on the diamond after each game and watch him uncork his new delivery.

Bob hails from Tamalpais Union high school at Mill Valley, across the bay from San Francisco—the same school that produced Tony Freitas, Sam Chapman and Ed Stutz.

Jensen made a hit in his coast league debut two night ago. He went into the game against Oakland in the third inning after the game apparently had been lost, the Oaks having taken a big lead. Jensen held the Oaks scoreless and to three scattered bingles in the 5 1-3 innings that he toiled.

Sports World Ramblings

Perfect bowling scores.... New Castle's bowling fraternity, which numbers well past the 500 mark, isn't half bad! Perusing a couple of dusty record containers, we came across a bit of info regarding two perfect duckpin scores rolled here within the past 15 years. In kegling jargon this is par on any course. Hitting 300 small sticks is a more arduous feat than toppling a similiar number of the big fellows.....

"Stocky "Charley" Freeman, who was prominently affiliated with the theatrical industry here at the time, saw his bowling dream become a reality more than 10 years ago. About five years ago, John Hurn, who still fires away, duplicated the feat. If any other perfect scores have been recorded in Lawrence County, ducks or tenpins, this bureau would appreciate dope on same.....

That John McConahy is a talented diamond star at Oberlin College isn't surprising to many of the city's sports gentry. This department was informed today that Dr. J. G. McConaghy ranked as one of the best baseballers in district collegiate circles. At the time, "Doc" played shortstop for Westminster and Pitt. Like dad, John is playing shortstop.....

Jim Flanagan, ex-Ellwood City High athlete, recently was the runner-up in an intercollegiate mitt slinging tourney held in Clarksburg, West Virginia. Flanagan, a 175-pound Salem College product, won over Willie Butler, Fairmont. In the finals, he lost a close decision to Nathan Hale, of Fairmont. Hale, winner of 21 straight tiffs, 17 of them by kayo, ranks Jim as the toughest foe he has encountered. Flanagan received a silver glove as a prize.....

Diamond short shots....Mel Ott, of the Giants, is regarded as the best waiter in the business. Since entering the big show, little Ott has received close to 1,150 free tickets to first....Vince DiMaggio, of the Reds, just missed tying his 1938 strikeout mark. In '38, he caused a breeze 134 times. Last season, he whiffed 133 times. During the waning weeks of the season, he fanned 10 times out of 12 trips to the plate in a Cincy suit.....

Contrary to all reports, Cincinnati plan's to hold tight to Johnny Vander Meer. Which is all right so far as N. L. clouters are concerned ....Connie Mack's latest prediction is one of the best. He figures the Yanks may finish as low as third place. C'mon Connie, cut it out.... Russ Bauers is ticketed for a ride down the minor rails. Frankie Frisch, according to Pittsburgh scribes, has just about given up. Johnny Gee, who could do all right in baseball, is another disappointment.....

Galento-Baer Meet May 28

Bout Depends On Physical Examination To Be Undergone By Maxie Baer

GALENTO'S EYES HAVE GONE BAD

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 5.—As things stand today, the battle of the two gargantuas, nee Tony Galento and Max Baer, is all set for Jersey City on May 28, provided Baer passes a physical examination as he is expected to do upon his arrival next week. Galento was subjected to a probing by the doctors yesterday, with the emphasis on his heretofore questionable eyes, and emerged from it all bearing the label of being his usual "amazing self." That's the strangest thing about Galento. Some one always is suspecting his health, then, upon examination, finding him a few pegs better than perfect.

This time it was reports of partial blindness suffered in his bout with Lou Nova at Philadelphia last summer that caused them to put old Tarzan on the table and begin digging about his person for symptons. Once before it was pneumonia, but the guy simply refuses to cooperate to the extent of revealing anything worse than a beer hang-over.

Has Bad Eyes

And it was him that Commissioner Abe J. Greene of Jersey was worried about when Promoter Mike Jacobs announced the 15-round match. There have been persistent reports that Galento's eyes have quit on him, and equally persistent denials by him and his manager, Joe Jacobs, until now the thing seems to be cleaned up beyond further debate. Anyhow, he will be able to see Baer well enough to heave some punches and possibly score the knockout he is betting on.

The examination of Baer will be more or less perfunctory. There never was anything wrong with him that a little more violence in his temperament wouldn't cure. He used to dissipate and he is older now and has been through for a couple of years—as Nova proved by scoring a technical knockout in Baer's last start—but he still makes a good target. That seems to be the purpose of the match.

Council Bars Free Golf At Sylvan Heights Course

There'll be no golf complimentary tickets this season at Sylvan Heights.

This was decided Thursday by council in session at city hall.

After council had approved golf prices Councilman W. H. Dunlap said he did not believe complimentaries should be issued.

Councilman J. D. Alexander said this plan would be satisfactory to him.

It was explained that in the past some complimentries were issued to some persons who induced others to play at the city course.

The members of the advisory board, however, who give their services free to the city, will be the only free players.

The prices decided upon follows:

Season, adult ticket, $15.00; family (man and wife) season ticket $25.00; juvenile membership for season $12.50; membership for students between 12 and 15 years of age, $7.50 and June-July and August vacation memberships $10.00.

The greens fees will be 40 cents for nine holes, 60 cents for 18 holes and on Monday (except when it is a holiday) up to 4 p. m., 18 holes, 40 cents; Tuesday, (Ladies day) up to 4 p. m., 18 holes, 35 cents. Play can be enjoyed all day for $1.00.

Walter S. Hart was continued as manager for a year and Charles E. Allen was renamed to the golf advisory board.

New Castle could be a lot worse off . . . for example look at our local council . . . the men whose job it is to run the city for the least money and they do it in the midst of great complaining . . . no matter how hard they tried they couldn't please every one all of the time. They are doing a swell job and it is our honest opinion that each one is doing the best he knows how for the betterment of the city and not any one person . . . Now we live in the County of Lawrence . . . look at the officials at the head of this department of our law . . . Two of the finest judges that can be found in many a mile . . . three county commissioners that can run a county the way it should be run . . . a sheriff to see that each one keeps in his place and plays the game fair . . . and all the rest of the county and city officials that go to make up our government . . . Fols we are lucky to live in New Castle.

In the sweet long ago, so they tell me,
In a garden where, nobody knows,
Dwelt a baskful, sweet, modest lily,
By a simple, old-fashioned white rose.

Now they both fell in love with the West Wind,
One evening at twilights close,
But the West Wind loved the lily
That grew by the side of the rose.

One night came the passionate West Wind
All confused by the dark, I suppose,
And the kiss that was meant for the lily
Was pressed to the lips of the rose!

And ever since then, so they tell me
Wherever a garden does grow
There's a sad shade of grief o'er the lily
And a blush on the face of the rose!

We have here in New Castle a wonderful park system for all the money and time that has been spent on them as compared to other towns . . . One little town down state with a population of about twenty thousand spent 12 thousand dollars on a park the size of our public square last year.

New Deadlock On Police Chief

Council Votes 5-5 On Morrison And Hartman At Meeting Last Night

WILL ASK COURT ABOUT PROCEDURE

ELLWOOD CITY, April 5—After a second ballot resulted in a 5-5 deadlock between the present chief, C. W. Morrison, and night lieutenant, Ernest V. Hartman, for the office of chief of police, members of the Boro Council in stated session last night, after long discussion agreed to have the Lawrence County Court interpret the law concerning the election inasmuch as various members disagreed on the exact meaning of the statute. A motion that the election be postponed another 30 days resulted in a 5-5 tie, resulting in the necessity of court action.

At the March meeting, the election, after two ballots were cast remained deadlocked at 5-5, however, the nominees at that time were Fred Kirkpatrick, night patrolman, and Lt. Hartman. At that time, the board agreed if a tie resulted at this meeting the burgess would, according to the law, have to cast the deciding vote to end the issue.

In the meantime, Kirkpatrick publicly announced, that he was not a candidate for the office. Attorney Ray Humphrey acting in behalf of city solicitor, J. W. Humphrey, who is vacationing in Florida, stated that the law in regard to the election said that when such disagreement arises, the burgess shall be asked to vote.

Councilman Howell maintained that there was no disagreement at this time because the candidates were not the same as before and that the election could therefore be legally postponed another thirty days.

Councilman Habart said that Morrison had been a candidate from the start. Burgess McGlincy said he "was on the spot in either case" and suggested it be taken to court, whereupon Councilman Boyd challenged his right to make any suggestion, as the matter was entirely up to council. Burgess McGlincy answered that he had the right of any citizen to make a suggestion at a public meeting.

Said Councilman Meneice, "Why don't we end this thing now, it makes us all baby dolls. Anyone can understand that law." Greenham, Meneice and Biordi asked that present action be taken, whereupon Howell declared he would protest such action. The court will decide if there is a disagreement and what and when action shall be taken.

Boro Council Members Meet

Plans For Future Garbage Collection And Incinerating Plant Advanced

ELLWOOD CITY, April 5.—Two ordinances regarding future garbage collection were passed on first reading at the April meeting of Boro Council last night with four members, Boyd, Curry, Lanzi and Zeigler, voting against the measure.

The first ordinance, both being presented by Councilman Howell, was for the purchase of land outside the boro for the purpose of erecting and maintaining a garbage disposal plant and the second ordinance called for the removal of the present plant to the property.

Councilman Curry interrupted the reading of the first ordinance with an objection whereupon Persident Greenham ruled him out of order. Later Mr. Curry voiced his objections saying that the boro has an incinerator on which a lot of money has been spent, and Councilman Lanzi voiced the same sentiment, further stating that "the boro has more property than they know what to do with".

Councilman Howell replied that the present incinerator was all right 30 years ago and continued that the Fourth Ward, where the plant is located, is now one of the best residential sections of the city and is the only part of the town being developed into home sites. He maintained that the odor of the plant was objectionable to residents of that ward.

Suspending rules and regulations, an ordinance creating a police department, the city now has a police force, presented by Nick Lanzi was passed on first and final reading with Boyd, Curry, Howell and Zeigler casting negative votes. The department would consist of 12 officers, namely, a chief of police, a captain, a lieutenant, a sergeant, 3 deskmen, and 5 patrolmen. The ordinance does not mean that the offices will all have to be filled.

A petition that Perry street be improved was referred to the street committee and boro manager and a petition asking fire protection on Woodside avenue to the boro line was given to the fire and water committee.

Ask Light Change

A communication was received from the state department stating that a four-way red light signal should be placed at Fountain avenue and Second street and asking for the removal of the stop light at Second street and Franklin avenue, suggesting that stop signs would be more effective. The letter was referred to the police committee, boro manager and burgess.

An ordinance for the paving of 13th street from Lawrence to Center avenue was passed on second reading. An ordinance for the paving of Clover avenue from Cedar to Gregg streets was passed on first and final reading and will be sent to W. P. A. headquarters for approval.

A resolution offered by F. W. Zeigler that the salary of the electric billing and filing clerk be increased 3 per cent was referred to the finance committee.

A motion from the finance committee, to which bids were referred, that a Chevrolet coupe be purchased for the engineering department, was approved.

Bids for services of a public accountant to inspect boro books were given to the rules and regulations committee for a recommendation.

The matter of what distance the rescue squad equipment may be taken form the city was referred to the fire committee.

It was agreed to send health chairman, A. J. Howell, and health officer, Lewis Young, to a state health conference to be held at Harrisburg April 16, 17 and 18.

The dangerous condition of parked cars on Border avenue (hospital hill) was discussed as was a donation to the playground commission for equipment. No action was taken.

In answer to a question by Mr. Curry, boro manager Monroe stated that he had been given to understand by the county commissioners that work of repairing the Ewing Park birdge would begin between May 5 and 15. At present, engineers are preparing plans so that commissioners can advertise for bids, Mr. Monroe stated.

It was agreed to finance the printing of the results of the zoning project in booklet form.

Total fines, costs and forfeits amounted to $30 and tax collections for the month of March were: $284 for 1938; and $632 for 1939.

There were five fires in March resulting in $460 damage, $400 of which was reported at the Guy Coal company.

Interest Shown For Volunteer Fire Department

Plan Meeting Of Neshannock Township Residents During Coming Week

Residents of Neshannock township seem to be backing the idea of forming a volunteer fire department in that district, one hundred per cent, according to James Messner.

Messner is serving in the capacity of temporary chairman of a committee that is sponsoring such an organization. Plans are being outlined for a meeting of all township residents who are interested in securing protection for their homes, sometime next week.

It is Messner's belief that if this proposed meeting is successful, a volunteer fire company may be organized at that time and preliminary plans outlined.

Complete information regarding this proposed meeting will be announced in an issue of The News, during the first part of next week.
